

Climate Change & Carceral Health

The Academic Consortium
on Criminal Justice Health

17th Annual Meeting

April 10th — April 12th, 2024 | Phoenix, AZ

Dear Colleagues –

Welcome to Phoenix, Arizona! We are glad you are here to attend the 17th annual meeting of the Academic Consortium on Criminal Justice Health (ACCJH). In the last year, the ACCJH board has worked hard to define & re-envision our new mission & vision statement that we hope aligns more closely with our membership’s understanding, priorities, & goals for the field. We are excited to unveil the new mission & vision to you for the first time at the conference & use it to forge our path forward for many years to come.

This year, we received over 100 more abstract submissions than ever before, reflecting a growing commitment to our field of research & – importantly– a centering of the health & well-being of individuals impacted by the criminal legal system. Because we received so many outstanding submissions, we have been able to add a third day of presentations – many of which map onto the conference theme of environmental justice & carceral health. We chose the climate crisis as our theme as it becomes ever more urgent & the impact it has on criminal legal populations impossible to ignore.

I encourage you to download & become familiar with the conference app. You can build your schedule, connect with colleagues, & complete evaluations all here. While we are technically located on the City of Tempe’s 40 square miles, it is important to acknowledge these are the historic homelands of the O’Odham (ooh-odd ham), Piipaash (pee-posh), & their ancestors. I encourage you to explore the area as much as you can while you are here!

Keynote Speakers.

Nicole Lewis
THE MARSHALL PROJECT

Nicole Lewis is the engagement editor for The Marshall Project, leading the organization’s strategic efforts to deepen reporting that reaches communities most affected by the criminal legal system. In this role, she will also lead investigative writing projects while working closely with The Marshall Project-Cleveland, The Marshall Project Inside, & other editors.

She rejoins The Marshall Project after serving as a senior editor at Slate, where she led a team of writers covering the array of legal issues before the Supreme Court for the publication’s Jurisprudence section. In 2020, she was the lead reporter on a first-of-its kind political survey of the incarcerated, which received an honorable mention from Investigative Reporters & Editors Philip Meyer Award for the project’s pioneering use of social science research methods.

Christie Thompson
THE MARSHALL PROJECT

Christie Thompson is a staff writer at The Marshall Project, where she covers prison conditions & mental healthcare. Her work has been published by outlets including The New York Times, The Washington Post, NPR, ProPublica, & The Atlantic.

She was the recipient of the 2016 George Polk Award for Justice Reporting, a 2022 Sigma Delta Chi award from the Society of Professional Journalists & was a finalist for a 2023 Scripps Howard award. She lives in Seattle, Washington.

Joseph Neff
THE MARSHALL PROJECT

Joseph Neff is an investigative reporter who has helped put guilty people in prison & get innocent people out.

His awards include the Goldsmith Prize (Mississippi prisons), the Robert F. Kennedy Journalism Award (hospital finance), the MOLLY National Journalism Prize (crooked labor boss), the Society of Professional Journalists’ Sigma Delta Chi (Blackwater) & others. He lives in Durham, NC.

Maurice Chammah
THE MARSHALL PROJECT

Maurice Chammah is a staff writer at The Marshall Project & the author of Let the Lord Sort Them: The Rise & Fall of the Death Penalty.

He was on a team that won the 2021 Pulitzer Prize in National Reporting & hosted the 2023 podcast Just Say You’re Sorry about police interrogations. He lives in Austin, Texas.

Sovereignty, Overincarceration, & Human Rights: Fostering & Sustaining Equity in Tribal Nations

Thursday, April 11th 9:15a | Ballroom

Desiree Fox
CSKT TRIBAL HEALTH

Desiree L. Fox, Ph.D., Bitterroot Salish, is an enrolled member of the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes (CSKT) of Montana. She was born & raised on the Flathead Indian Reservation in Arlee, MT. Dr. Fox is a licensed psychologist in Washington & Montana & is currently the Behavioral Health Division Director & Supervisory Clinical Psychologist in her home community at CSKT Tribal Health in St. Ignatius, MT. She is also a partnering consultant for the Center for Justice Innovation's Tribal Justice Exchange in New York, NY. In this role, Dr. Fox is assisting in the development & piloting of a culturally-informed risk-needs tool for use with Native Americans involved in the criminal justice system.

Dr. Fox completed her doctoral training at the University of Montana-Missoula. Her pre-doctoral internship & post-doctoral fellowship were both completed at the Veterans Affairs Puget Sound Healthcare System—American Lake Division, in Tacoma, WA. During internship she completed rotations in Primary Care Mental Health Integration, Pain Clinic, & Telehealth. Her post-doctoral fellowship was completed within Primary Care Mental Health Integration with an emphasis on Health Psychology with minor emphases in administration & telehealth. Additionally, Dr. Fox served a co-chair of the Diversity Committee for both years of her training at the American Lake VA.

In her clinical work, Dr. Fox's intentions are to increase quality, culturally-appropriate services to the patients served in behavioral health services as well as in integrated care settings. Dr. Fox is particularly passionate about providing these services to historically- & colonially-marginalized populations. Her research interests are in Indigenous resiliency, historical loss & trauma, & holistic wellness of Indigenous peoples.

Ann M. Miller has been an attorney with the Tribal Defenders Office of the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes on the Flathead Reservation in Montana for twenty-seven years & the managing attorney for seventeen. During her tenure, the Defenders Office implemented an innovative in-house service for clients with co-occurring mental illness & chemical dependency & adopted a holistic defense practice with assistance from the Center for Holistic Defense sponsored by the Bronx Defenders Office in New York. In 2015, the Defenders created the Flathead Reservation Reentry Program that provides interdisciplinary, supportive services for tribal members returning to the reservation from incarceration. The Defenders Office services have expanded to include mental health client advocates, cultural mentoring, & permanent supportive housing.

Ms. Miller served on Montana's Public Defender Commission for six years & Montana's Statewide Reentry Task Force for two years. She currently serves on the Advisory Board for the Justice Center, Council of State Governments. Ms. Miller is the 2021 recipient of the American Bar Association's Dorsey award recognizing legal services to the indigent & received the 2023 Partners for Justice legacy award for innovation & contributions to collaborative public defense.

OFFICE

Dr. Ciara Hansen (Shawnee) is a licensed clinical psychologist. She earned her Ph.D. from the University of Montana as a member of the Indians into Psychology (INPSYCH) program. She completed her pre-doctoral internship & her post-doc fellowship at Waianae Coast Comprehensive Health Center, located on the leeward coast of Oahu, serving primarily a Native Hawaiian population. Dr. Hansen's clinical work has focused on using evidence-based treatments to meet the psychological needs of underserved minority communities.

She uses a cognitive-behavioral theoretical orientation situated within a multicultural/intersectional framework to conceptualize client symptomology & often uses third-wave therapies to address client concerns. Dr. Hansen's research has aligned with her clinical goals to address health disparities & build capacity within American Indian communities. Dr. Hansen's dissertation project focused on identifying unique risk & resiliency factors for Tribal members involved in the justice system in Montana. In her current role,

Dr. Hansen has recently collaborated with the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education & two other rural mental health hospitals/clinics to develop a pre-doctoral psychology internship training consortium focused on providing competent psychological services in rural & tribal communities.

THE VERA INSTITUTE

John A. Fabricius is the Digital Campaigner for the Justice program at Dream.Org, and a co-founder & Executive Director of Arizonans for Transparency & Accountability in Corrections (ATAC), which is dedicated to passing legislation to create independent, external oversight of Arizona's prison system. John's commitment to reform stems from his & his older brother's experiences with incarceration.

His brother was incarcerated in the Arizona juvenile & adult prisons as well as the Nebraska & Illinois prison systems. John's brother suffered from substance abuse disorder since he was a teenager, & his convictions were most often for drug possession or low-level property offenses. He succumbed to his substance abuse disorder not long after being released from the same Arizona prison he was incarcerated at 40-years previously as an 18-year-old.

John was incarcerated in Arizona for 15 years. During his time in prison, he was housed at 14 different facilities, including three private prison facilities in Indiana, Oklahoma & Arizona. Released in 2018, John continues advocating for others through his work. He holds associate & paralegal studies degrees & has over a decade of legal experience in prisoner civil rights, post-conviction relief, habeas corpus, family & civil law.

David H. Cloud has more than 12 years of experience conducting research & policy analysis on issues at the intersection of public health, drug policy, & mass incarceration.

He is a mixed-methodologist who applies a framework grounded in social-ecological theory, human rights, & harm reduction to study how carceral environments & prison reform efforts impact the lives of incarcerated people, as well as those who work in prisons. He has a JD from Villanova University Law School, an MPH from Columbia University, & a PhD from the Rollins School of Public Health at Emory University. He lives in Atlanta, Georgia.

ARIZONANS FOR TRANSPARENCY & ACCOUNTABILITY

Betsy Craft (she/hers) is a state-certified C.O. Peer & Family Specialist (CPFS), community engagement consultant, & anti-carceral drug policy advocate. She is passionate about mobilizing peer-led, harm reduction services to marginalized communities & saving lives from preventable opioid overdoses.

She serves on multiple community advisory boards at the intersection of the criminal legal system, unhoused communities, & behavioral health. During the pandemic, Betsy began her career in peer support on the front line at C.O. Village Collaborative's Safe Outdoor Spaces & Tiny Home Villages listening & supporting survivors of unsheltered homelessness.

In 2022, she began working with the Office of the Municipal Public Defender with the City of Denver, as a Peer Navigator, & has co-developed hundreds of overdose safety, re-entry & wellness plans for individuals inside the Denver Jails to support their successful transition back into the community. In 2023, Betsy earned a B.S. in Business & Organizational Leadership with a focus in social entrepreneurship models that build & sustain power for transformative societal change.

Betsy uses her lived experience as an overdose survivor, survivor of homelessness, & previously incarcerated individual to 1) contribute as a drug policy advocate & advisory board member with the C.O. Drug Policy Coalition to fight for anti-carceral drug policies (2) to crowdsource, problem-solve & reduce barriers for our Denver metro housed & unhoused neighbors, & (3) to strengthen peer support workforce standards & best practices across C.O.

She is the co-chair of the Recovery Workgroup for the C.O. Consortium & leads the Advancing the Peer Support Workforce in C.O. Correctional Facilities sub-committee, a peer-led statewide movement to reduce barriers & identify opportunities to provide peer support services in carceral facilities.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 10th

[Opening Remarks] How Journalists Can Help Researchers – & Researchers Can Help Journalists

Joe Neff, Christie Thompson, Nicole Lewis, & Maurice Chammah

1:00p | Ballroom

This panel will feature award-winning journalists who write on criminal legal issues and health. Moderating by Dr. Justin Berk, the discussion will focus on the intersection of journalism and research and how the two disciplines can collaborate to illuminate the scope of impact that carceral systems can have and how to improve policy.

[Roundtables] HRCH, International Work, Racial & Social Justice, Research, Medical Education, Health Crim, ACCP, New to ACCJH, Firearms & Carceral Pops, Hep C [and more!]

2:30p | Ballroom

Want to learn more about a specific organization, our standing committees or a research topic or policy area? Swing by the Ballroom and network! Hang at one table or visit multiple – it's up to you!

ACCJH Scholarship Awards

5:00p | Ballroom

Join us as we acknowledge the recipients of the 17th annual ACCJH Conference. Learn more about their work as students, research staff, community advocates, and in areas across the spectrum of carceral health. ACCJH is able to offer scholarships thanks to the generosity of the Jacob and Valeria Langeloth Foundation.

ACCJH Scholarship Reception

6:00p | Ballroom

Immediately following the awards, join your colleagues for a reception to celebrate the scholarship recipients in community. Soft drinks and appetizers will be provided, and a cash bar is available.

THURSDAY APRIL 11th

Speed Mentoring

7:30a | Back Ballroom

Mentors and mentees from diverse research disciplines will participate in a speed networking session from 7:30a–8:30a, Thursday, April 11th. This will be an opportunity for early career ACCJH attendees to meet new colleagues, broaden networks, and plant seeds for future collaboration.

[Keynote] Sovereignty, Overincarceration, & Human Rights: Fostering & Sustaining Equity in Tribal Nations

Desiree Fox, Ann Miller, & Ciara Hansen

9:15a | Ballroom

This panel will be moderated by Drs. Camplain and will highlight inequities in the over-incarceration of Native Americans. Importantly, mapping onto our conference theme, the panelists will discuss land sovereignty, climate, and the impact on tribal populations.

[Panel] The Burden of Proof: Recidivism and the Fight Over Causal Inference

Nicole Lewis, Maurice Chammah, Kathryn Notowny, & Carrie Pettus

10:45a | Cholla Vista

This is a season of criminal justice research drama, from a major paper about the “dirty secret” that it’s almost impossible to prove particular programs reduce recidivism, to a prominent funder accusing a grantee of “malpractice.” All at a time when researchers are questioning the long-standing focus on recidivism itself. Where do we go from here? Organized with The Marshall Project, this panel will unpack the current debates about research methods and what they say about the future of criminal justice reform.

Poster Sessions

4:30p | Ballroom

Hear from the authors of five highlighted posters. Then grab a snack, & take your time to visit with your colleagues and view the 50+ posters presented at ACCJH 2024. Cash bar will be provided.

FRIDAY APRIL 12th

[Panel] The Climate Crisis & the Carceral Violence of Extreme Heat

David Cloud, Betsy Craft, & John Fabricius

10:00a | Ballroom

Our final panel will include a diverse array of experts to discuss the impact of extreme temperatures on staff and people who are incarcerated in jails and prisons. Moderated by Dr. Glenn, this panel will highlight the need for policy change and reduction of population in the context of rapid climate change.
